

BEFORE THE FUNERAL.

THE REMAINS LYING IN STATE

Forty thousand people look upon the dead Statesman-Indianapolis Covered with Mourning Veils.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

INDIANAPOLIS, November 30.—All trains coming into the city this morning were crowded. Several of the roads were compelled to run extra trains to accommodate the people who desired to come to the capital to attend the funeral of Vice-President Hendricks. The remains lay in state in the corridor of the court-house until evening. The arrangements for handling the crowd were much more complete and satisfactory to-day than yesterday. Military companies and police were stationed along Washington street for two blocks away from the court-house, and as fast as the people arrived they were put in two lines and kept moving. There was a steady and undiminished stream of humanity passing through the building all day. The doors were opened at 7 o'clock this morning, and from that time up to noon the crowd pressed through at the rate of 75 a minute, probably 25,000 persons being present. The remains lay in state until 1 o'clock. The greater part of these were from outside the city, although all the schools, offices, manufacturers, and nearly all the business-houses in the city have been closed all day.

Mrs. Hendricks remained quietly at home this morning, seeing but few callers. A committee of ladies have elaborately draped the family residence with white garlands and flowers. At a meeting of the State Bar Association this afternoon Hon. Walter O. Graham, of Chicago, presided. Judge David S. Turpie presented a lengthy memorial, and brief eulogistic addresses were made by Judge W. A. Bickel, of Richmond; Hon. John R. Caffrey, of Lafayette; Judge T. F. Love, of Shelbyville; Judge T. J. Davidson, of Crawfordsville, and others.

There was a steady shifting of the police streets and city buildings this morning, the night coming on rapidly, owing to an impenetrably wintry sky. The rain was starless to-night, and the fear has been general that the morning may usher in a storm. There was a slight sprinkling of rain this afternoon, but it was hardly perceptible and soon passed away, but the heavy appearance of the sky late in the afternoon indicated that the rain would be held in abeyance during the afternoon.

There were evidences at hand in every direction of preparations for the ceremonies to-morrow. The crowds began to grow denser in the business portions of the city and the hotels took on a crowded appearance. On the residence streets the finishing touches were given to mourning decorations. The crowd of draying horses practically surrounded in the business center. Washington street, the main business thoroughfare, presented a sable appearance, no structure appearing without its drapery of black, relieved occasionally with the intermingling of white. The face of the dead Vice-President met one everywhere. This led to the portals of the court-house where the remains of the dead statesman lay exposed to view, and a surging and ever-increasing throng was being at any point along its entire length, but grew more dense when approaching that public edifice. Here the military and police were called into requisition to keep the mass moving and prevent a blockade. When the great doors of the building were ordered closed this afternoon, the waiting crowd of numbering thousands, stood in a line trying to take a last glance at the face of the dead, but were unable to do so. After 1:30 P. M. the pressure of the crowd to view the remains became greater. The line formed on the street extended two squares from the entrance, and the guards were increased in order to prevent an accumulation of the crowd. The line moved more slowly, and the crowd about ninety per cent passed the body. It was estimated that 40,000 people viewed the body during the day.

Shortly before noon Senator Voorhees and party were admitted to the south entrance, and the senator paused for a moment for a close inspection of his friend. He went with reluctance, saying in few moments that he had feared to remember Hendricks as he last knew him, but after viewing his remains he expressed surprise at the life-like appearance. "Perhaps a little paler, but remarkably like," was his remark. A similar opinion was expressed by other gentlemen who were given more than a passing glimpse. At 4:15 the doors were closed. In fifteen minutes the military and his assistants and representatives of the committees marched to the court-house. The casket was borne through the south entrance to the street, where it was placed in a hearse and, escorted by four Indianapolis companies, was returned to the parlor of the homestead. All along the line of march the mournful music of the Columbus-Barracks military band announced its movement, and to the people who flocked to the sidewalk, the music was removed to the church to-morrow the body will lie at rest beneath the roof where its last living hours were spent, and will be surrounded by tokens of affection and sympathy placed there by friends to-day.

The committees on reception and arrangements concluded all matters of detail this afternoon. The arrival of nearly all the distinguished delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

At midnight the sky is overcast and the probabilities of rain to-morrow are stronger. The hotels have received large additions, especially from the delegations of the morning and sub-committees were appointed to arrange for their reception. One thousand tickets have been issued for admittance to St. Paul's Episcopal church, where the services will be conducted, and the orders are such that no one will be admitted to the edifice in the absence of the proper card. A detachment of soldiers and police will be on duty to see that this order is carried out, and to prevent the funeral procession from being disturbed for the exclusive use of the relatives and intimate friends of the deceased. These will follow the hearse from the family residence to the church. The procession will be formed at the church. The remains will reach the church promptly at 12 o'clock. The line of march to Crown Hill cemetery, where the remains are to be interred, is fully fixed, and, owing to the length of the procession, any delay in its movement might necessitate the performance of the concluding rites at the grave after the shadows of afternoon had begun to fall, and, owing to this fact, the committees have sought to assure promptness in all movements.

P. M. There will be memorial services during that time at the court-house.

GENERAL SHALER ARRESTED.

Charged with Bribery in the Purchase of Army Sites.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, November 30.—This evening Inspector Barnes handed to Detective-Sergeants Stevin and Reilly a bench-warrant issued by Recorder Smyth for the arrest of Major-General Alexander Shaler. The General is charged with bribery in connection with the purchase of the army site. He was arrested at his house, No. 127 West Forty-eighth street, brought to police headquarters about 8:30 o'clock this evening, and was there locked up. That the grounds upon which General Shaler was arrested to-night may be clearly understood, it may be said that the General Shaler has, throughout the course of the Gibbs senatorial investigation committee, denied that he ever received or was influenced in any way in the choice of sites for army property. In his testimony to-day before the Gibbs committee, Major-General Shaler distinctly and emphatically said that he arranged with General Schell and Fairchild property to the Army Board at figures greatly in excess of what the property could have been bought for at private sale, he had paid off mortgages of $9,000 on property owned by General Shaler in New Jersey, and had handed the satisfaction pieces to him. In his testimony to-day before the Gibbs committee General Shaler handed the satisfaction pieces back to him with the request that they be destroyed, which was done.

General Shaler is president of the Board of Health and is a major-general in command of the First Division of the National Guard. He succeeded Professor Chandler, of Columbia College, as the head of the health department about two years ago, and was also secretary of the Army Board, which chose the sites of the armories recently built. The other members of the Army Board were ex-Mayor Edison and Hubert O. Thompson.

The transactions in which General Shaler is said to be unpleasantly involved are three in number, so many army sites having recently been bought for the army by the Army Board, of which Shaler is a member. The first was the purchase of the site of the new armory at Westchester, N. Y., which was bought for $100,000. The second was the purchase of the site of the new armory at Fort Mifflin, Pa., which was bought for $100,000. The third was the purchase of the site of the new armory at Fort Mifflin, Pa., which was bought for $100,000.

Monmouth H. Wilson is the man who is alleged to have acted as middleman between the owners of the property bought for army sites and the Board of which Shaler is a member. Wilson is said to have got an upset price from the property-owners and a bonus as well, and then induced Shaler to choose the sites. This view of Wilson had in negotiation. Shaler's sin is alleged to be in fact that he accepted satisfaction pieces of mortgages to the amount of $9,000 from Wilson, who swears he never spoke to any member of the Army Board except Shaler. The theory of those who believe Shaler guilty is that in view of Wilson taking up the mortgages on his (Shaler's) property, he (Shaler) lent his influence to fix on such army sites as should yield Wilson a profit on their sale and purchase.

MORMON VINDICTIVE.

Trouble Fought in Salt Lake City Over the Shooting of McMurrian.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, November 30.—Joseph McMurrin, who was shot by Deputy-Marshal Collins on Saturday night, is still alive. Collins was turned over to the military authorities, and the crowd of numbering thousands, stood in a line trying to take a last glance at the face of the dead, but were unable to do so. After 1:30 P. M. the pressure of the crowd to view the remains became greater. The line formed on the street extended two squares from the entrance, and the guards were increased in order to prevent an accumulation of the crowd. The line moved more slowly, and the crowd about ninety per cent passed the body. It was estimated that 40,000 people viewed the body during the day. Shortly before noon Senator Voorhees and party were admitted to the south entrance, and the senator paused for a moment for a close inspection of his friend. He went with reluctance, saying in few moments that he had feared to remember Hendricks as he last knew him, but after viewing his remains he expressed surprise at the life-like appearance. "Perhaps a little paler, but remarkably like," was his remark. A similar opinion was expressed by other gentlemen who were given more than a passing glimpse. At 4:15 the doors were closed. In fifteen minutes the military and his assistants and representatives of the committees marched to the court-house. The casket was borne through the south entrance to the street, where it was placed in a hearse and, escorted by four Indianapolis companies, was returned to the parlor of the homestead. All along the line of march the mournful music of the Columbus-Barracks military band announced its movement, and to the people who flocked to the sidewalk, the music was removed to the church to-morrow the body will lie at rest beneath the roof where its last living hours were spent, and will be surrounded by tokens of affection and sympathy placed there by friends to-day.

CAROLINA METHODISTS.

Division of the Conference Dejected-Heated Discussion.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTE, N. C., November 30.—The discussion to-day on the division of the Conference is conceded by all to have been the ablest and most exciting this Conference has had for many years. Drs. Wilson, Mann, and Koby were the principal speakers. A vote was reached at sunset, which resulted in a majority of 24 in favor of the division.

The preaching yesterday by members of the Conference gave universal satisfaction. The sensation of the day was the sermon of your Dr. Lafferty in the afternoon. Many think his effort was the finest of this session.

Died from the Effects of His Injuries.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., November 30, 1885.

Yesterday evening witnessed the death of Mr. John Owen, who was shot brutally dead on the head on the night of the 24th instant. Mr. Owen recovered consciousness only long enough to say, "They hit me twice and got my money." There was no clue to the perpetrators of the horrible deed. Owen had been superintendent of Sergeant's foundry for several years, and was highly esteemed. He leaves a wife and several children.

Fatal Explosion.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

WORCESTER, MASS., November 30.—The cylinder-head of a 650-horse-power Corliss engine blew out this afternoon at the Worcester Steel Works. George Ryder, engineer, was instantly killed; James Joyce, another employee, was severely cut, and several others were slightly injured.

A Dismal Tragedy.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

JEAN PORTER, RICHMOND, November 30.—While a young man named Belle was visiting his sweetheart, Miss Daigle, here to-night, Miss Daigle's brother accidentally shot him through the head, killing him instantly. Miss Daigle has become insane.

Horsford's Bread Preparation.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

MISS PARLOA, of the famous Boston Cooking-School, says: "I have used Horsford's Bread Preparation with perfect success for bread, biscuits, rolls, and cake."

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

EN ROUTE FOR INDIANAPOLIS

Departure of the Congressional Committee and Others to Attend the Funeral-Order Issued for Closing Post-Office.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

WASHINGTON, November 30.—The congressional committee appointed to attend the funeral of Vice-President Hendricks left here by special train on the Pennsylvania railroad at 10:35 this morning. The Senate committee consists of Senators Edmunds, Allison, Vest, Harris, Conger, Blair, Dolph, Vest, Beck, Camden, Vance, and Jones. Mr. Voorhees, who is also a member of the committee, left for Indianapolis Saturday. They were accompanied by the Clerk-of-the-Senate McCook and Sergeant-at-Arms Canada. The House committee consists of Representatives Morrison, Blount, Herbert, Holman, Springer, Hepburn, Ward, Phelps, Kleiner, Ryan, and Dunn. They were accompanied by Sergeant-at-Arms Lee-Don.

Associate-Justices Matthews and Blatchford, representing the United States Supreme Court, accompanied by Assistant-Marshal Reardon, went upon the Pennsylvania railroad at 10:35 this morning, under the escort of Robert A. Parke, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Robert Barry, of the Pullman-Car Company.

Commodore Harmony, Acting Secretary of the Navy, has issued an order closing all navy-yards to-morrow out of respect to the memory of Vice-President Hendricks, and an order was issued by the Postmaster-General directing the closing of the post-offices on the day of the funeral. The order is in effect from 12 M. to 12 M. Tuesday out of respect to the memory of Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks, late Vice-President of the United States.

Secretaries Bayard, Whitney, Lamar, and Endicott, and Postmaster-General Vilas left for Indianapolis to attend the funeral of Vice-President Hendricks. The train left at 10:35 this morning, and after some discussion as to the course to be taken, resolutions were unanimously adopted to the effect that Mr. Downs having by his recent course brought disgrace upon the ministerial profession and the cause of Christ, he be expelled from membership in the conference. It was also resolved that we hereby disown all connection with him as a minister, while we earnestly pray that he may repent and so change his conduct as to win the sympathy of his brethren and of the Christian public; that we approve the action of the Board of Church and Society in closing their house of worship.

An Inmate Husband's Murders.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

KALAMAZOO, MICH., November 30.—Elijah Burkland, the Bloomingdale farmer, who, while in prison, had been nearly killed by his wife, was seized with a fit of insanity again on Saturday last, and tried to cut his wife's throat with a dull case-knife, slashing her throat four times, and then gashing his youngest daughter's throat. Several arteries were laid bare. The day before he told his wife that she had but one day to live, and that he would kill her. The woman from instant death. Their recovery is doubtful.

The Late Archbishop Purcell's Affairs.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

CINCINNATI, November 30.—J. B. Mannix, assignee of the late Archbishop Purcell, made his first report of the condition of the affairs of the deceased divine to-day. The report shows that the assignee has received $40,000, $31,000 of which for legal services. He has now on hand $74,000, but does not disburse it among the Archbishop's creditors on account of a case pending to the Federal Court, which may largely increase the value of the estate or which may make the $74,000 not enough to satisfy the claims.

A Domestic Tragedy.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

PITTSBURGH, November 29.—A Zanesville (Ohio) special says: At Norwich last night Mrs. Birdie Schroyer, the young wife of Solomon Schroyer, a well-to-do young man, killed herself by taking strychnine. The sad affair so deeply affected her husband that a few hours later he swallowed several ounces of chloroform, and is now lying unconscious, with very little hope of his recovery.

Arrest of a Murderer.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

CHARLESTON, S. C., November 30.—A colored man named Briggs has been arrested, who confesses his implication in the murder of Constable Blackwell, in Edgefield county, last October. Blackwell was sent to arrest some disorderly negroes, and they barricaded themselves and fired on the officer, killing him. The murder caused great excitement at the time.

An Express Safe Robbed.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., November 30.—At Hope, Ark., this morning, the safe of the Southern Express Company was found open, and a package containing $5,000 in greenbacks, consigned to W. W. Foster, was gone. It had been sent from the German National Bank, of Little Rock, on Saturday. Other packages aggregating $1,700 were not taken. Nothing else was disturbed.

Affairs in Spain.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

MADRID, November 30.—The new Cabinet has been approved throughout Spain. The only fear is in regard to Senor Zorilla, the Republican chief, who will lose prestige unless he is sent to a revolt. If he is captured the sentence of death, already passed upon him for participation in former risings, will be executed immediately.

The Manifesto of Carlos promising to confirm to Spaniards all their present civil and religious liberties is considered a direct bid for the throne, and is also interpreted as a prelude to a proposal of marriage of Don Carlos's son, Prince Jaime, and the Princess of Asturias.

In the event of no heir to the throne being born, both the Carlists and Monarchists would welcome such a settlement with acclamation, and it would end a fifty-year conflict and enable Spain to assume an appropriate position among the Powers of Europe. (Prince Jaime was born June 27, 1870, and Princess of Asturias on September 11, 1880.)

The Dead King of Spain.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

MADRID, November 30.—Emperor William, out of respect for the memory of King Alfonso, desires to sign the Caroline agreement directly. There was an amusing scene at the arrival of Escudal upon the arrival of King Alfonso's body. When the procession reached the monastery the Duke de Sexto, the royal chamberlain, knelt and requested admittance for Alfonso. When outside the gates the Duke unlocked the coffin and called three times in Alfonso's ear. Then, according to the ritual, he said: "There is no reply. It is true the King is dead." He then relocked the coffin and broke his head off.

hates four miles south of here to-day, having been forcibly taken from some officers who were bringing him here on a charge of horse-stealing. After he was hanged the following placard was put on his back: "Horse-stealing; the rest of the gang take warning." Keach was one of the worst of a gang of horse-thieves.

The Pennsylvania Striking Miners.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

PITTSBURGH, November 30.—Contrary to expectations, there was no strike at Coal Valley to-day. The strikers assembled in large numbers about Pine-Run mine, but no attempt at violence was offered when the non-striking miners went to work. All is quiet now. As the strikers say they will not disturb the men working, no serious trouble is apprehended. The Lynn mines, at Pine Run, are the only ones in operation. There is a dispute as to the number at work, the operators claiming that fifty men went in this morning, while the strikers declare that not more than fifteen went to work in the fourth pool. A small number of men resumed this morning at Neil's mine, but at Gregg's and Wood's the miners do not feel inclined to go to work until the trouble is over. This is owing to the fact that several non-striking miners have been caught and severely beaten and their homes pecked with stones during the night. In one instance a bullet was fired through the window of a miner's wife, passing a few inches from the miner's wife, who had a babe in her arms. The sheriffs of Washington and Fayette counties, with a large posse of men, are still on duty, but their services have not been required. To-day Sheriff Chambers has warrants for a number of participants in last week's assault.

A Disgraced Minister.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

BOSTON, November 30.—At a largely-attended meeting of the Baptist ministers this morning the case of Rev. W. W. Downs, recently pastor of Rock Church, was being placed in responsible posts. Letters are sent to the few remaining loyal sheikhs urging them to come in and assuring them of a good reception. The Arabs are now with the rebels, heart and soul. The recent heavy rains have filled the tanks and wells, and it is not impossible that the Dervish army will advance, and avoid the British outposts, take the desert route and make a direct attack on Lower Egypt, leaving the English garrisons in a critical position. Any reverse at a small post would no doubt set against England the Ababdeh and Bishareen tribes, now wavering in their allegiance. It is no longer a question of putting off, but an absolute necessity to push forward the increasing power of the Mahdi. Had the British remained at Dongola it is not only probable but almost certain that the movement would not have been increased to its present alarming extent.

THE IRISHMAN'S THEORIES.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

LONDON, November 30.—The National League of Great Britain has telegraphed to the various branches in every Parliamentary division in which the poll has not yet taken place, saying: "We trust that Irishmen in your district will strive to stand by the instructions contained in Parnell's manifesto, and vote straight for the Liberal Unionist candidate, and thus add another to the already numerous victories of our countrymen in England and Scotland."

MR. GLADSTONE AND THE IRISH.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

LONDON, November 30.—The Times says: Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian progress has been a failure. He returns to the House as a leader of the opposition; but that position may set as the brightest jewel in his crown of fame if he shows himself a patriot and not a partisan in his management of the difficult Irish question.

The Birmingham caucus has decided to place the country parliamentary divisions with Gladstone's reference to Irish affairs in his first Midlothian speech. In that he claimed that there was vital danger to the empire if only a small Liberal majority was returned, as that would make the Liberal government dependent on the Irish Unionist.

The Tories are fastening an argument that the appeal at the present moment to the country districts would be too late to effect a change sufficient to please Gladstone, and that it would be better to make the Tories strong enough to avert the catastrophe predicted by Gladstone in the speech referred to above. Meanwhile Parnell is satisfied that only a small Tory majority will be returned.

A Small-Pox to New York.